

ORLAND TO HAVE BOOSTER WEEK

Business Men Join
Realtor In Opening
New Subdivision

The biggest day in Orland history is scheduled for Sunday Sept. 19th when the beautiful Orland Park Highlands Subdivision, located east of the Orland school on 143rd St. will be opened. This tract comprises 160 acres, is beautifully wooded and one of the most ideal home sites in Cook County.

What interest this choice subdivision has aroused in Chicago, can be seen in the fact that on Sunday even though it rained, six buyers were out from Chicago and four purchased lots. These lots are being sold at one half price until the opening Sunday, when the full price will be in effect. Mr. Kraus has put forth much trouble and expense to make this thing go over big.

The opening of this subdivision is going to be observed with a Booster Week all next week by the Orland business men. The News-Bulletin carries a full center spread of advertising from the Orland business men as well as of the subdivision. Be sure and read all these ads and patronize the Orland business men as they help to maintain your community. Boost for Orland and Boost with might and main. The time is here when the small suburban towns will and must grow, caused by the crowded cities and high priced home upkeep, and also increased populace. So it is well and right to boost your town thereby showing the progressive spirit and the realization of the possibilities. Our town has a Great BIG FUTURE and the News-Bulletin predicts that within a few years more this town will be one of the most rapidly growing villages in Cook County.

ASKS REDUCTION OF MOKENA FARE

An informal complaint requesting a hearing before the Illinois commerce commission for an order directing the Rock Island railroad to sell commutation tickets to Mokena pupils who attend the Joliet High school, has been filed by L. G. Bruder, of Mokena.

The fare charged between Mokena and Joliet on the Rock Island is 40 cents one way. There are more than 10 pupils from Mokena attending the Joliet High school each day and Mr. Bruder asks that some rate reduction be granted them.

Date for hearing on the informal complaint has not been set.

The Illinois Traction system operating west from Joliet and carrying pupils from Morris and Minooka to the Joliet high school makes a practice of selling a $5 book for $3.35 to pupils under 19 years of age. This schedule of fares applies all along the Illinois Traction system lines from Joliet to Princeton according to R. G. Near, general passenger and freight agent.

Mr. Near said the schedules with the reduction in rates for school children was filed in November, 1924 voluntarily by the company and approved by the commerce commission.

Test Chemical
Trucks at Mokena

The selection of the type and make of chemical fire truck for Mokena is causing much discussion. On Wednesday night a Ford chemical truck was tested out and on Thursday night the new Reo fire truck of Tinley Park was tested out. Sentiment is divided as to which type the village fire department ought to have. The Ford truck when manned with six men and complete with chemical tanks and 1000 feet of village fire hose weights nearly 4000 pounds and costs about $2100. Just which type will be selected will be decided soon.

Oak Lawn Has Pretty Floral Show

The Oak Lawn Community Club held its third Flower, Fruit Vegetable and Domestic Science Show last Saturday, September 11th, at the Community House.

The first prize for the greatest number of points, was awarded to Mr. Grant Law, who exhibited canas, asters, zenias, gladioli, salvia, geraniums, verbenas, and some vegetables, but his coxcombs were the extra ordinary part of the whole show. Some of the heads were from nine to ten inches in diameter, which were the finest specimens ever seen by anyone at the show.

The second prize was won by Mrs. Agnes Mann, whose variety of lovely flowers was an important part of the exhibit. She entered marguerites, nasturtiums, foliage plants, rose of Sharon, cosmos and most outstanding of all, two exhibits of beautifully arranged marigolds of different varieties and two varieties of lilies.

Mrs. Bosma won 3rd prize, her exhibit consisted of fine vegetables.

The 4th and 5th prizes were won by Mrs. Montgomery and Mrs. John Hopkins, Jr., respectively. Mrs. Montgomery brought a number of flowers and fruits, one of her most interesting exhibits being a charming bowl of mixed flowers, an arrangement of yellow and white flowers. Mrs. John Hopkins received the most points in domestic science.

Space prevents a detailed account of the fine things entered, but special mention is deserved by Mr. N. Schmallen for his very large and beautiful asters, and to Miss Minnie Sals for some especially fine peppers of different varieties. The beauty of the show was splendidly contributed to by exhibits from Vaughan's Seed Store, and the Evergreen Florist. Vaughan's sent many varieties of especially selected gladioli and donated several baskets of their finest bulbs, to be sold for the benefit of the Community Club.

The beautiful foliage plants sent by the Evergreen Florist were very much talked of, and the Oak Lawn Community Club is very grateful indeed to these two business houses for their kind co-operation. Mrs. Mann still has some of the Vaughan's bulbs for sale, to any one who is planning a fall garden.

We were especially fortunate in having well qualified judges. Mr. MacMillan of Vaughan's, Mr. Halls and Mr. Frank Wilson, all men who understand horticulture, were those who decided on the merits of the garden exhibits. Mrs. Genevieve Kretzen and Mrs. A. Piper were judges of the Domestic Science.

A delicious supper was served under the general direction of Mrs. E. Schaller.

Suggestions have come from many who were anxious to exhibit, but who could not because it was just too late for the best specimens of their gardens. They hope for an earlier date next year, and the Community Club will be glad to arrange a date that will seem satisfactory to the most people.

The chairman of the program committee wishes to take this opportunity to thank all those who, by their presence, labor or contributions, have helped to make this exhibit a success.

The Oak Lawn Parent-Teacher Association has had the first meeting of its Board of Directors to make plans for the first meeting to be held Friday Sept. 11th, and also to make a general outline of the plan of work for the coming year.

The Association welcomes all friends of the school to its meetings and hopes for a year of good work.

Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Ryan motored to St. Ann, Ill., last Sunday and attended mass.

The Oak Lawn Welfare was well attended under the supervision of Irene O'Connor. About 15 mothers attended.

Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Ryan attended the Postmasters meeting and banquet at Blue Island recently.

MONEE FAIR
OPENS SEPT. 22

The 22nd Annual Monee District Fair which opens in Monee, Sept. 22nd for 3 days is bigger and better than ever before. There will be a splendid fireworks display on the second and third evenings.

Baseball games will be a big feature of the fair and band concerts will be enjoyed at all sessions. There will be an exceptionally good line of exhibits and much interest is being shown in the live stock show and many good entries are expected. Over $2000 in purses are being offered in the horse races and this should many lively steppers which will add much interest to these events. There will be the usual line of good clean concessions and dancing will be each evening. An agricultural exposition with splendid state exhibits and many liberal premiums offered is sure to be a big attraction. School children will be admitted free on Friday Sept. 24th.

spending two weeks in Peru and other cities.

Miss Elsie Skium has returned from an extensive trip thru Washington and other places.

Miss Hazel Phillips left last week for a month's visit thru California. Burnett & Haas have sold their restaurant to Messrs. Johnson and Kellams and the community joins in wishing them well.

Clarence Krueger has taken over the business formerly owned by W. F. Krueger and has a complete line of meats and groceries. We should certainly patronize a boy reared in our own town.

OAK LAWN STANDARD SCHOOL
Wiley Simmons, Prin.

Our school opened Tuesday, Sept. 7th, with a good enrollment and with all prospects for a successful new term. All pupils seemed glad to get back to school again and were so perfect and prompt in forming their lines and marching into their schoolrooms to a tune on the piano that a bystander could hardly realize that they had been out on a 3 months' vacation.

Our Achievement club had its first regular meeting of the year Friday afternoon Sept. 10th. Mr. Simmons acted as temporary chairman and the club proceeded to elect new officers for the coming year as follows: Wilbert Harnew, Pres., Henry Schenkel, Vice Pres., Florence Griede Sec'y., and Wm. Harnew Treas. Wilbert and Henry both served in the same offices last year and the club members showed their appreciation of their good service by re-electing them for another term. Hurrah for them.

We now have 32 members in our achievement club and they are doing some splendid work. During the past year they have made 22 gardens, carried 3 pet-stock projects, 10 sheep project, 12 sewing projects, 10 music projects, 3 poultry projects, and 6 of our boys did so well in our manual training, they were given achievement credit for their accomplishments in wood-work.

One year ago, today, only one of our pupils was taking music lessons, while today, we have 40 who are studying instrumental music and are looking forward to the time when we shall have an amateur orchestra of our own.

We have an active Achievement Club and we are certainly proud of it. Our school nurse, Miss Irene O'Connor, visited us on Friday and said she would start our examinations some time next week.

This Commissioner
Keeps Weeds Down

Highway Commissioner Emil Capel of Frankfort township deserves much credit for cleaning up the highways and putting them in such a clean shape. The weeds and grass has been cut along the highways adding much to the safety of motor travel as views at curves are unobstructed by heavy weeds. Soon as one gets into New Lenox township on the west one notices the difference, for here the weeds and grass remain uncut.

Public Service
Adv. Manager Dies

Funeral services for Frank M. Lester, 71, Editor of the Public Service Company of Northern Illinois News, who died Saturday, Sept. 11, at his home in Chicago, were held Monday afternoon.

Mr. Lester was very well known thruout Northern Illinois, particularly in newspaper circles. For 17 years he was a writer on the staff of the Chicago Tribune, becoming affiliated with the utility industry in Northern Illinois prior to the organization of the Public Service Co. in 1911. For several years he served the latter organization as Advertising Agent under Chas. A. Monroe, later being appointed Advertising Manager under Chas. Bradley, Vice President in charge of Public Relations for the Public Service Company.

The first employee publication of this company was known as the Public Service Lumen and was edited by Mr. Lester from 1916 to 1921. The name of the publication then was changed to the News, Mr. Lester continuing in the capacity of editor in addition to his duties as Advertising Manager.

In the Spring of this year, however, he was compelled, because of ill health, to relinquish the duties of this latter position, although he continued to hold title as Editor of the News.

Mr. Lester was one of three surviving members in Chicago of the Order of Cincinnati, a society made up of the eldest sons in the families of Revolutionary War officers. He was a grandson, seven generations removed, of Jonathan Edwards.

Surviving are the widow, a daughter and two grand children.

Honor Bride To Be With Shower

Saturday afternoon Sept. 11th, Miss Viola Beagley, daughter of Wm. Beagley of Orland, was pleasantly surprised, when Mrs. Arthur Beagley and Miss Elsie Sievert entertained 82 guests at a miscellaneous shower, in her honor at the home of Mrs. Arthur Beagley.

The parlor and dining rooms were prettily decorated in pink and white crepe paper ribbons and kewpies.

Numerous games were played, prizes being awarded to Mrs. Howard Cooper, Mrs. Wm. Hewson and Mrs. Frank Powell, which were in turn presented to the bride to be.

The shower gifts were heaped under a large pink and white umbrella which took the bride and groom elect, considerable time to open.

At 4:30 a delicious luncheon was served by the hostesses. Each guest was presented with a pink and white favor.

The guests departed at a late hour all reporting a good time and wishing Miss Beagley, who is a popular young lady of Orland, lots of luck and happiness in her future home.

Mokena Girl To
Wed St. Louis Man

Mrs. Wm. Schmuhl and Mrs. Harold Spiess entertained at a surprise miscellaneous shower at the former's home in Mokena, Monday night, in honor of Miss Ruth Neithammer, daughter of Wm. Neithammer and her approaching marriage.

The home was prettily decorated in old rose and white paper streamers, the bride elect's chosen colors. Bunco was the diversion of which the prizes, won by Mrs. Henry Schevlin, Miss Neithammer and Miss Julia Hirsch were later presented to the honored guest.

Many lovely and useful gifts Mrs. Neithammer, will on October 12th in St. Louis, Mo., become the bride of Mr. Chas. Schneider, formerly of Chicago, now of St. Louis.

A kitchen shower will be given in her honor also on Oct. 2nd, in

Orland Park Has Hot Village Meeting

The meeting of the Orland village council held Monday night was a red hot affair and took on the aspect of a regular battlefield where all the grievances were aired and many complaints heard. The big fuss was primarily due to motorcycle cop Hoffman arresting Jedd Ludwig for speeding. It seems that since the appointment of the motorcycle cop there is more speeding going on 143rd street than before.

The young people of Orland are otherwise very law abiding, but it seems the appointment of the cop has caused wide discontent and has not the approval of the people. A few of the questions raised by the tax payers of Orland are something like this: Why does Orland need such an expensive policeman? Other towns have their policemen who are not paid a very great salary and yet there is no trouble. Up to date the Orland copper has not performed all his duties according to some of the charges made at the board meeting Monday night.

It was charged that he had not collected the water and vehicle license taxes and the question was asked why? Some of the citizens want to go back to the old system when they claim money was not squandered. The citizens contend that all should pay their taxes and that the money thus raised should be administered and used in the right place and the right way.

Mr. Ludwig's case came up before a jury at the village hall on Wednesday and after hearing the points in the case the jury returned a verdict of not guilty. Thus ending the reading of the first chapter in arresting speeders.

Stolen Car Case
Goes to Justice Park

Late Thursday afternoon great commotion was caused at Orland when a young couple driving an Essex car were overtaken in Orland by a taxi in which was another man who claimed the car had been stolen. The case wound up in court in Justice Park but with what results has not been learned.

Rate Question
Referred to R. I.

L. G. Bruder of Mokena who asked the Illinois Inter-State Commerce Commission to take action in getting the Rock Island to reduce the fare for high school students of Mokena attending the Joliet high school, received the following reply from H. M. Slater, chief of the rates and tariffs section of the commission:

"Replying to your letter of Sept. 10th in regard to the securing of commutation tickets between Joliet and Mokena.

"We have taken your complaint up with Mr. L. M. Allen, vice-president of the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific railway company and upon receipt of advice from him will write you further."

Brotherhood Convention Sun.

A big Brotherhood Convention is to be held at Peotone this coming Sunday and a big delegation of the Mokena and Frankfort Evangelical Brotherhoods are planning to attend in a body. All the Mokena Brotherhood members will meet at St. John at 1:30 and leave in time to attend the convention. The vote and moral support of every member is needed and all are urged to go. If you have no auto make arrangements with someone to take you to the convention.

Vitaphone Is Great
Wonder of the Age

Editor and Mrs. Wm. Semmler of the News-Bulletin, had the honor of being guests of Warner Bros., at the guest performance of Vitaphone at McVickers Theatre in Chicago Wednesday evening.

The new device is one of the greatest marvels of the age, in fact so wonderful, it staggers the imagination. As the moving pictures are flashed on the screen, the actor and actress are heard speaking as plainly as tho they were present in person. Music also is very clearly received without any mechanical sound, every note being perfect.

At the Wednesday night performance of Vitaphone, John Barrymore featured in "Don Juan" and was wonderful, the music for which was by Vitaphone, it being the 107 piece New York Philharmonic orchestra. The New York Metropolitan Opera Orchestra was seen and heard playing Wagner's "Tannhauser". Such great stars as Marion Talley, Anna Case, Mischa Elman and others were heard.

Vitaphone is an instrument that synchronizes motion pictures and sound perfectly. A specially devised system regulates electric vibrations, music singing ect.

Former Bremen
Commissioner Is Married Third Time

John M. Bettenhausen, former highway commissioner of Bremen township does not believe in the state of single blessedness and has taken a plunge in the sea of matrimony for the third time and his friends wish him happiness in this.

Mr. Bettenhausen was married two weeks ago to Mrs. Anna Kott of Blue Island, the Rev. Mr. Dorman of that city tying the knot.

FRANKFORT

Mrs. Minnie Dammann is very low at her home in Frankfort. She was brought home a week ago from the home of her son Louis in Joliet.

Francis, the Mexican girl, who has been ill several months with Tuberculosis, died Monday morning at the Will County Tuberculosis sanitarium in Joliet.

Funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon in Frankfort, Rev. B. F. Duncan officiating. Burial in Pleasant Hill cemetery, where 3 other children of this family are buried. The deceased is survived by her parents, 1 sister and 2 brothers.

This family lives in the Folker's cottage near the M.C.R.R.

Chapter IX

Back to Lac Bain, late in September, came MacDonald the map-maker. For ten days Gregson, the investigating agent, had been Bush McTaggart's guest at the post, and twice in that time it had come into Marie's mind to creep upon him while he slept and kill him. The Factor himself paid little attention to her now, a fact which would have made her happy if it had not been for Gregson. He was enraptured with the wild, sinuous beauty of the Cree girl, and McTaggart, without jealousy, encouraged him. He was tired of Marie.

McTaggart told Gregson this. He wanted to get rid of her, and if he—Gregson—could possibly take her on with him it would be a great favor. He explained why. A little later, when the deep snow came, he was going to bring the daughter of Pierrot Du Quesne to the Post. In the rottenness of their brotherhood he told of his visit, of the manner of his reception, and of the incident at the chasm. In spite of all this, he assured Gregson Pierrot's girl would soon be at Lac Bain.

It was at this time that MacDonald came. He remained only one night, and without knowing that he was adding fuel to a fire already dangerously blazing, he gave the photograph he had taken of Nepeese to the Factor. It was a splendid picture.

"If you can get it down to that girl some day I'll be mightily obliged," he said to McTaggart. "I promised her one. Her father's name is Du Quesne—Pierrot Du Quesne. You probably know them. And the girl—"

His blood warmed as he described to McTaggart how beautiful she was that day in her red dress, which had taken black in the photograph. He did not guess how near the boiling point McTaggart's blood was.

The next day MacDonald started for Norway House. McTaggart did not show Gregson the picture. He kept it to himself, and at night, under the glow of his lamp, he looked at it with thoughts that filled him with a growing resolution. There was but one way. The scheme had been in his mind for weeks—and the picture determined him. He dared not whisper his secret even to Gregson. But it was the one way. It would give him Nepeese. Only—he must wait for the deep snows, the midwinter snows. They buried their tragedies deepest.

McTaggart was glad when Gregson followed the map-maker to Norway House. Out of courtesy he accompanied him a day's journey on his way. When he returned to the Post, Marie was gone. He was glad. He sent off a runner with a load of presents for her people, and the message: "Don't beat her. Keep her. She is free."

Along with the bustle and stir of the beginning of the trapping season McTaggart began to prepare his house for the coming of Nepeese. He knew what she liked in the way of cleanliness and a few other things. He had the log walls painted white with the lead and oil that were intended for his York boats. Certain partitions were torn down, and new ones were built; the Indian wife of his chief runner made curtains for the windows, and he confiscated a small photograph that should have gone on to Lac la Biche. He had no doubts, and he counted the days as they passed.

Down on the Gray Loon Pierrot and Nepeese were busy at many things, so busy that at times Pierrot's fears of the Factor at Lac Bain were forgotten, and they went out of the Willow's mind entirely. It was the Red Moon, and it thrilled with the anticipation and excitement of the winter hunt. Nepeese carefully dipped a hundred traps in boiling caribou-fat mixed with beaver-grease, while Pierrot made fresh deadfalls ready for setting on his trails. When he was gone more than a day from the cabin, she was always with him.

But at the cabin there was much to do, for Pierrot, like all his Northern brotherhood, did not begin to prepare until the keen tang of autumn was in the air. There were snowshoes to be rewebbed with new babiche, there was wood to be cut in readiness for the winter storms; the cabin had to be banked, a new harness made, skinning knives sharpened and winter moccasins to be manufactured; a hundred and one affairs to be attended to.

He repaired the meat rack at the back of the cabin, where, from the beginning of cold weather until the end, would hang the haunches of deer, caribou and moose for the family larder and, when fish was scarce, the dogs' rations.

In the bustle of all this Nepeese was compelled to give less attention to Baree than during the preceding weeks. They did not play so much; they no longer swam, for with the mornings there was deep frost on the ground, and the water was turning icy cold; they no longer wandered deep in the forest after flowers and berries. For hours at a time Baree would now lie at the Willow's feet, watching her slender fingers as they weaved swiftly in and out with her snowshoe babiche; and now and then Nepeese would pause to lean over and put her hand on his head, and talk to him for a moment—sometimes in her soft Cree, sometimes in English or her father's French.

It was the Willow's voice which Baree had learned to understand, and the movement of her lips, her gesture, the poise of her body, the changing moods which brought shadow or sunlight into her face. He knew what it meant when she smiled; he shook himself, and often jumped about her in sympathetic rejoicing, when she laughed; her happiness was a part of him, a stern word from her was worse than a blow. Twice Pierrot had struck him, and twice Baree had sprung back and faced him with bared fangs and an angry snarl, the crest along his back standing up like a brush. Had one of the other dogs done this, Pierrot would have half killed him. It would have been mutiny, and the man must be master. But Baree was always safe. A touch of the Willow's hand, a word from her lips, and the crest slowly settled and the snarl went out of his throat.

Pierrot was not at all displeased. "Dieu, I will never go so far as to try and whip that out of him," he told himself. "He is a barbarian—a wild beast—and her slave. For her he would kill."

So it came, through Pierrot himself—and without telling his reason for it—that Baree did not become a sledge dog. He was allowed his freedom, and was never tied, like the others. Nepeese was glad, but did not guess the thought that was in Pierrot's mind. To himself Pierrot chuckled. She would never know why he kept Baree always suspicious of him, even to the point of hating him. It required considerable skill and cunning on his part. With himself he reasoned:

"If I make him hate me, he will hate all men. Mey-oo! That is good."

So he looked into the future—for Nepeese.

Now the tonic-filled days and cold, frosty nights of the Red Moon brought about the big change in Baree. It was inevitable. Pierre knew that it would come, and the first night that Baree settled back on his haunches and howled up at the Red Moon Pierrot prepared Nepeese for it.

"He is a wild dog, Ma Nepeese," he said to her. "He is half wolf, and the Call will come to him strong. He will go into the forests. He will disappear at times. But we must not fasten him. He will come back. Ka, he will come back!" And he rubbed his hands in the moon-glow until his knuckles cracked.

The Call came to Baree like a thief entering slowly and cautiously into a forbidden place. He did not understand it at first. It made him nervous and uneasy, so restless that Nepeese frequently heard him whine softly in his sleep. He was waiting for something. What was it? Pierrot knew, and smiled in his inscrutable way.

And then it came. It was night, a glorious night filled with moon and stars, under which the earth was whitening with a film of frost, when they heard the first hunt-call of the wolves. Pierrot knew that at last had come that for which Baree had been waiting. In an instant Baree had sensed it. His muscles grew taut as pieces of stretched rope as he stood up in the moonlight, facing the direction from which floated the mystery and thrill of the sound. They could hear him whining softly; and Pierrot, bending down so that he caught the light of the night properly, could see him trembling.

"It is Mee-Koo!" he said in a whisper to Nepeese.

That was it, the call of the blood that was running swift in Baree's veins—not alone the call of his species, but the call of Kazan and Gray Wolf and of his forebears for generations unnumbered. It was the voice of his people. So Pierrot had whispered, and he was right. In the golden light the Willow was waiting, for it was she who had gambled most, and it was she who must lose or win. She watched Baree as he slowly faded away, step by step, in the shadows. In a few moments more he was gone.

Marriage Wrecked on Rock of Discourtesy

There is nothing on earth that so grinds one as to be met with discourtesy and rudeness in daily life. I have watched for fifty years and I have found that the nasty little cancer that eats the deepest and hurts the worst in married life is lack of courtesy, just common, everyday politeness in the way you address each other and in the attention you pay each other, in the way you eat your food, in the way you conduct yourself in the privacy of your bed-chamber.

Be gracious! More men and women have lost themselves to each other by being rough and careless and sickening each other concerning the little niceties of life, when merely to keep up things in the way they began would have saved the whole situation.

It was then that she stood straight, and flung back her head, with eyes that glowed in rivalry with the stars. "Baree!" she called. "Baree! Baree! Baree!"

He must have been near the edge of the forest, for she had drawn a slow, waiting breath or two before he was back at her side. But he had come, straight as an arrow, and he whined up into her face. Nepeese put her hands to his head.

"You are right, mon pere," she said. "He will go to the wolves, but he will come back. He will never leave me for long." With one hand still on Baree's head, she pointed with the other into the pitlike blackness of the forest. "Go to them, Baree!" she whispered. "But you must come back. You must Cheamao!"

With Pierrot she went into the cabin; the door closed behind them, and Baree was alone. A choking gathered in his throat. He threw up his head. Straight above him was the Red Moon, inviting him to the thrill and mystery of the open world. The sound grew in his throat, and slowly it rose in volume until his answer was rising to the stars. In their cabin Pierrot and the Willow heard it. Pierrot shrugged his shoulders.

"He is gone," he said.

"Oui, he is gone, mon pere," replied Nepeese, peering through the window.

No longer, as in the days of old, did the darkness of the forests hold a fear for Baree. This night his hunt cry had risen to the stars and the moon, and in that cry he had for the first time sent forth his defiance of night and space, his warning to all the wild, and his acceptance of the Brotherhood.

In that cry, and the answers that came back to him, he sensed new power—the final triumph of nature in impugning on him the fact that the forests and the creatures they held were no longer to be feared, but that all things feared him. Off there, beyond the pale of the cabin and the influence of Nepeese, were all the things that the wolf-blood in him found most desirable: companionship of his kind, the lure of adventure, the red, sweet blood of the chase—and matehood. This last, after all, was the dominant mystery that was urging him, and yet least of all did he understand it.

He ran straight into the darkness to the north and west, slinking low under the bushes, his tail drooping, his ears alert—the wolf as the wolf runs on the night trail. The pack had swung due north, and was traveling faster than he, so that at the end of half an hour he could no longer hear it. But the lone wolf-howl to the west was nearer, and three times Baree gave answer to it.

At the end of an hour he heard the pack again, swinging southward. Pierrot would easily have understood. Their quarry had found safety beyond water, or in a lake, and the muheunks were on a fresh trail. By this time not more than a quarter of a mile of the forest separated Baree from the lone wolf, but the lone wolf was also an old wolf, and with the directness and precision of long experience, he swerved in the direction of the hunters, compassing his trail so that he was leading for a point half or three-quarters of a mile in advance of the pack.

This was a trick of the brotherhood which Baree had yet to learn; and the result of his ignorance, and lack of skill, was that twice within the next half-hour he found himself near the pack without being able to join it. Then came a long and final silence. The pack had pulled down its kill and in their feasting they made no sound.

The rest of the night Baree wandered alone, or at least until the moon was well on the wane. He was a long way from the cabin, and his trail had been an uncertain and twisting one, but he was no longer possessed with the discomforting sensation of being lost. The last two or three months had been developing strongly in him the sense of orientation, that "sixth sense" which guides the pigeon unerringly on its way and takes a bear straight as a bird might fly to its last year's denning place.

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

At this minute if I should be asked to name the biggest rock on which matrimony stands, I would put my fingers on the thing that starts discontent and unhappiness, as lack of courtesy between men and wives, which very shortly culminates in disgust and disrespect.—Gene Stratton-Porter in a posthumous article in McCall's Magazine.

MILK SICKNESS

EVERYBODY in the country knows what milk sickness is. It is an illness which occurs in human beings who have eaten milk, cream or butter from cows which have the "trembles." It has been known in this country over a hundred years. It is found in many of our agricultural states, especially North Carolina, Tennessee, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Missouri and Mississippi. In 1925 six deaths from this cause were reported from Illinois alone and doubtless many others occurred the cause of which was not recognized. Nine cases in human beings with no deaths occurred in one county.

In a recent issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association, Dr. W. E. Walsh of Morris, Ill., reports 44 cases which he has seen himself and 60 which he has learned of indirectly.

It has now been definitely proven that milk sickness is due to poisoning of cows from eating a wild plant known as white snake root. This plant belongs to the same family as the common garden aster. It is also called boneset, pole root and squaw weed. It grows from one to four feet high and is found from Minnesota to Louisiana and eastward to the Atlantic coast. It grows generally in rich deep shady woods, but it will also grow in the shade on hillsides or on open ground.

In his article Doctor Walsh describes some typical cases he has seen. In a farmer's family three persons had been ill several weeks with loss of appetite, pain in the stomach and general weakness. The hired man who had been complaining had apparently recovered. He walked into town, four miles and back, went to bed on his return, became unconscious and died the next day.

Another patient, a child eight years old, had been ill for two weeks with vomiting, pain in the legs, back and stomach and great weakness. She apparently recovered and went back to school. But on her return from school she became unconscious with a rapid pulse and temperature below normal and died in a few hours. Two days later her mother became sick with the same symptoms but recovered. Doctor Walsh found that the family was getting its butter supply from a milk-sickness district.

This disease in cows is called trembles. Milk from such cows is dangerous and may cause sickness and death. Cows should not be allowed to pasture in lots where snake root grows.

AUTOMOBILE EXHAUST POISONING

SEVERAL years ago in an article on the dangers of carbon monoxide poisoning from automobile exhaust, I said that the time was coming when the increasing number of automobiles would make the air in congested streets in our large cities unfit for human consumption. Evidently that day has already arrived.

In a recent issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association appears an article on "Street Risk From Carbon Monoxide Poisoning," which shows that the amount of this dangerous gas in some of our congested city streets often reaches a point where it is a real risk. Henderson and Haggard in 1923 had already shown that this gas could be found in recognizable quantities in the air in certain crowded New York streets at times of greatest automobile traffic. This proved that there was carbon monoxide in the air but it did not prove how much of it was absorbed.

In the normal person, the red blood corpuscles in going through the lungs take up oxygen from the air breathed into the lungs and give it out to the tissues all over the body. When carbon monoxide is breathed into the lungs, it is also taken up by the red blood corpuscles, but instead of being easily given off again it forms what chemists call a "stable compound," that is, one which it is hard to break, so that the corpuscles which have taken up carbon monoxide cling to it very tenaciously and cannot absorb any oxygen. These corpuscles are like carts which are so heavily loaded with stones that they have no room left to carry food. If one third of these corpuscles are loaded with carbon monoxide then the subject is only getting two-thirds of the oxygen he should get. If the load goes over 30 per cent then the subject is in danger of developing carbon monoxide poisoning.

This is one of the dangers of ordinary illuminating gas. Once the patient has breathed a large amount of gas, either by accident or with suicidal intent, it is very hard to revive him no matter what methods are used, as the blood cannot take up enough oxygen to keep him alive. The danger line is considered to be 30 per cent of gas in the blood. In preparing this paper, 14 traffic police on duty eight hours a day at the crowded ferry entrance in Philadelphia showed, by blood tests, the presence of carbon monoxide in the blood from 0 to 20 per cent, six of them showing over 20 per cent. These six all complained of symptoms of gas poisoning after a day's work. Garage workers, men in gas-supply stations and others are equally exposed to gas poisoning.

THE WORLD'S GREAT EVENTS

ALBERT PAYSON TERHUNE

The Norsemen

"FROM the fury of the Norsemen—good Lord deliver us!"

This line from the ancient church litany sums up in one sentence the terror inspired all over the civilized earth by the Scandinavian sea-rovers of the Ninth and Tenth centuries A. D.

On the sterile coasts of Norway, Sweden and Denmark lived a hardy race, known to the world at large as "Danes" or "Northmen." Their own rocky countries could not support them. The love of wandering and of battle was hot within them. They were almost amphibious in their devotion to the sea. Thus, just as Europe was beginning to settle into some sort of international peace and stability of government after the turmoil of the dark ages, down swooped hordes of these wild Northmen upon nearly every rich and fertile country they could find, burning, murdering, looting, conquering.

It was the "northern peril" the people of that day dreaded. For no coast-dweller of England, France, Germany or Italy could tell on what morning he might awake to see the horizon dotted by the serpent-prowed, long-oared, shield-hung galleys of the invaders, or find his city in the merciless grip of half-naked, yellow-haired barbarians.

It was before the day of telegraphs, cables or any means of rapid communication. Hence, there was no forewarning of the swift, terrible raids, no opportunity to mass a sufficient force to repel them.

Much poetical lustre has since been cast upon the Northmen. As a matter of fact, they were simply pirates, sea-robbers, cutthroats. They had no stable government, no modern laws. Each community was ruled by the admiral of some particular pirate fleet. He was known as a "sea king" or Viking. The victims had no way of retaliating. By the time an army of resistance could be raised the Vikings were at sea again and had vanished into the mysterious North. They were men of iron, their climate and poverty having accustomed them to bear cold, hunger and every other privation without injury. They had no settled home, no patriotic ambition; no pleasures, save war and feasting.

Yet they left their mark on the world and on its history. Under a Viking named Rollo a party of Northmen ravaged France in 912 A. D., plundering Paris and putting the French king at their mercy. To appease them, the king gave Rollo a vast tract of French land and made him a duke. On this land the raiders settled, the name Northmen changing to Norman, and their new dukedom taking the title of Normandy. It was a direct and near descendant of Rollo who was destined later to conquer England and change the English language, law and government.

For two centuries Great Britain was devastated by the Northmen, Alfred the Great being the only king who scored any permanent success in clearing the land of them. But on Alfred's death they returned in fresh numbers and soon conquered all England. For many years they ruled the country.

Little by little, as large colonies of Northmen invaded and conquered other lands, settling down in their new possessions, they became merged in the former populations of those countries, lending fresh vigor, energy and hardihood to the conquered races, but losing their own Norse identity. There thus developed a trace of sea-rover blood in nearly every European race, leading nations to aggressive conquest, to exploration, to marine trade and to personal prowess. In time Scandinavia lost so many men by these wholesale emigrations that there were no longer enough left to terrorize other countries.

Eric the Red, a ruddy-haired, ruddy-faced Scandinavian pirate, discovered Greenland late in the Tenth century and settled there. Then in the year 1000, according to many authorities, Eric's son, Leif, sailed on a foraging and exploring expedition, with a crew of thirty-five men. They lost their bearings and sailed westward before a gale, arriving at last at a wonderful country such as they had never before seen or heard of. It was North America they had blundered upon. From the masses of wild grapes at the various spots where they landed, they named the new country Vineland, and sailed back to report their discovery.

Seven years later a colony of sixty Greenlanders came to America and, landing, it is said, on the shores of Rhode Island, formed what was planned to be a permanent settlement. This settlement for a time flourished, but soon all trace of it ends. Its people were probably massacred by Indians.

For 400 years longer America was destined to lie undiscovered. Yet to the Northmen this country owes a vast debt. For it was due largely to rumors and traditions of Leif's voyages that Columbus first conceived the idea that there was a continent to the westward. It was due also to the love of the sea and the tendency to explore implanted in Europeans' hearts by a Norse ancestry that Columbus' voyages were rendered possible.

So America, as well as the older countries of the earth, has cause to think kindly of the murderous, yellow-haired Norse giants whose name was once a terror to the whole civilized world.

Good Elimination Is Essential to Good Health.

THE kidneys are the blood filters. If they fail to function properly there is apt to be a retention of toxic poisons in the blood. A dull, languid feeling and, sometimes, toxic backaches, headaches, and dizziness are symptoms of this condition. Further evidence of improper kidney function is often found in burning or scanty passage of secretions. Each year more and more people are learning the value of Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, in this condition. Scarcely a nook or hamlet anywhere but has many enthusiastic users. Ask your neighbor.

A SAFE, DEPENDABLE LAXATIVE

LUXURIOUS UTILITY COATS; AUTUMN MILLINERY IS HERE

COMES now autumn with winter not far away and what has fashion to say in regard to the coats we will wear to protect us from chilling winds? Briefly let the answer be—luxurious plaids, fur-collared, and if it so please you, fur-lined.

An increasing difference in styling is manifesting itself between the sports or utility coats and the dressier types for more formal occasion. While the latter is taking on all sorts of new vagaries in the way of fanciful sleeves and decorative features, the coat which will serve for play, for work, for school and for all practical daytime affairs is remaining loyal to

ing. It is the yield-to-the-touch capeau which is making its debut for autumn and winter. With a deft pull here, a clever kink there and a dimpling or denting-after-it-is-on of the crown millady tunes her headwear to her own individual style of beauty from now on or at least until further notice.

The new exquisitely fine felts and velours let their modishness be accentuated through rippling brims and adjustable crowns. Just as important as the felts and even more so, are the muchly bestitched, besmocked and beshrred velvet hats, most of which are as limber as a wireless, unstiffened the regulation slim silhouette, stressing warm deep-pile fabrics and wondrous fur collars and sometimes long revers at the front opening. An interesting item about some of the lighter weight fur-lined cloth coats is that they are reversible.

Deep, roomy useful patch pockets are a prominent feature for the coming season's practical coat. The picture defines a very stylish model of handsome wool plaid, its brilliant colors accented in contrast to the wide, plain but very elegant sealskin collar. The cleverly designed pockets and cuffs add a pleasing note of variashape can be. The millinery group in the picture records some vastly important style items.

The little hat in the lower left corner of this collection has three outstanding features, namely, it is smocked, is styled of smart-looking suede cloth and exploits the popular beige coloring.

Stitching is one of the stressed treatments for velvet. Sometimes the stitching is so close that when done in thread contrasting the velvet the effect is of a solid coloring. The graceful velvet hat shown last in the picture shows a profuse stitching, also tion in that plaid-on-the-bias is used for trimming.

Among coats for motoring, traveling and general sports fur-lined suede models are appealingly styled.

To much cannot be foretold in regard to lavish fur trimmings, but for the present many of the fall models show merely the fur collars. Coats of fur fabric with trimming of genuine fur are proving an interesting new subject in the realm of later winter wraps.

Not this season will madame or miss be expected to put on a hat and wear it, becoming or not becoming.

one of the new whimsical soft brims. The center model to the left, too, is of velvet and being of the extremely stylish vagabond type it may be bent to become.

It is everywhere apparent that brim bindings are featuring the newer felt shapes. Note with what nifty the brim is bound and the crown beribboned in the hat illustrated first.

Hatter's plush, please do not forget, is to be a leading medium for the styling of hats. Note its use for the model shown to the right center.

Sunday Sept. 19th. Bible school at 9:30. Morning worship at 10:30. The sermon is the next in the series on "The World's Greatest Short Stories". Evening service at 7:30. A piano recital will be given beginning at 7:15 for all who are interested. The general topic for discussion during the next few weeks will be "How To Know God". Can we actually know God in this modern 20th century life? How do we come to know Him in our day? Does He reveal Himself different from olden times? These are some of the considerations involved in these meetings. Do not miss them.

On Sunday afternoon Sept. 12th the fourth Quarterly Conference was held at the church with the District Superintendent, Dr. E. G. Schultz presiding. At the recommendation of the Official Board, the following officers and committees were elected for the coming year: Trustees: John G. Loebe, Wm. Beagley, James Creer, Archie Kay, Clarence Beagley, Edgar Cooper, and Joseph Creer. Stewards: John Loebe, Archie Kay, Wm. Beagley and Clarence Beagley. Recording Steward, J. G. Loebe; District Steward, same; Communion Steward, Hattie Austin; Director of Social Life, Miss Clara Myrick.

Sunday school Supt. Wm. T. Beagley; Pres. of Women's Guild, Mrs. James Creer; Treasurer of Local Expense Fund, J. G. Loebe; Treas. of Benevolences, Archie Kay; Representative to City Missions, Mrs. Nina Kay; De. Finance Camp Meeting Representative, Wm. Beagley. Pres. of Board of Trustees, J. G. Loebe, Representative of Women's Department of Chicago Church Federation, Mrs. David Agate and Miss Hattie Austin. Com. on Religious Instruction: Mrs. D. Agate, and Mrs. N. Kay; Com. on Apportionment: Benevolences, A. C. Kay, James Creer, Miss C. Myrick, and Mrs. D. Agate; Parsonage and Furniture Com. Mrs. James Creer and Mrs. David Agate; Rep. to City Missions, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Kay; Music, Clarence Beagley, Chairman Mrs. N. Kay and Lester Mahaffy. The present pastor was asked by the Quarterly Conference to be returned for another year.

Last Sunday evening a unique service was held at the church, initiated by the Official Board and known as "The Annual Meeting of the Church and Congregation". The beginning was a "potluck" supper served in the church basement. After the supper, under the leadership of the pastor, reports were read and speeches made by the following: Mrs. J. Creer of the women's fund, A. C. Kay for benevolences, Wm. Beagley for the Sunday school and Clarence Beagley for the young people.

The pastor asked Mr. Robert Murdoch who recently came to the church from Chicago to say a word of farewell, since he is leaving this week for the University of Illinois. The pastor then read his written report which had already been given in the afternoon before the Quarterly Conference. This report spoke of the progress of the year in regard to property improvements, the increase of enthusiasm and attendance in the Sunday school, the items of special interest in regard to the increased activity among the young people and the development of the concept of worship in the morning services of the church. It is assumed that this annual meeting for information and inspiration will become an established custom in the Orland M. E. Church.

The Tom Richards family from Campus, Ill., have moved into the Mrs. Robert Hearn house in the Ranney subdivision. Mr. Richards is expected to arrive in Orland soon.

Rev. and Mrs. Neumeier and the Salvanson family of Chicago were week end guests at the C. E. Beagley home last Sunday.

nanced Finest System of Highways.

Illinois has approximately 5,000 miles of paved highways. The construction of these roads was financed by the automobile owners of the state, who are paying in $13,000,000 annually to meet interest charges and pay the principal on bond issues and for maintenance of the roads.

"Since 1917, when the plan for applying automobile fees to highway bond issues was worked out by Secretary of State Louis L. Emmerson, the state has lifted itself out of the mud. Instead of being one of the most backward states in road improvement as it was then, it is now recognized as one of the most advanced. When we first began discussing this legislation we were collecting only a little over a million dollars a year in automobile fees and there was grave doubt as to whether or not the fees would take care of the interest and principal of the proposed $20,000,000 bond issue in the twenty years allowed."

"More than a quarter of a million dollars in fees which otherwise would not be paid is collected as the result of the operation of these men. They do not confine their attention, however, to checking violations of the motor vehicle laws. They make every possible effort to enforce all automobile laws and particularly those which have to do with safety. Their work individually and in co-operation with local authorities has been very effective. Secretary Emmerson declares, in discouraging reckless driving."

Enforce Safety Laws.
"Every man is under instructions from this office," Mr. Emmerson says, "to do everything in his power to curb recklessness. One reckless driver makes the highway along which he drives unsafe and endangers the lives of hundreds. No effort should be spared to bring these automobilists to justice and make them realize that they do not own the highways."

KEEP BRAKES IN GOOD CONDITION

A Few Timely Suggestions
If You Would Avoid Accidents.

One of the greatest elements of safety is good brakes. Brakes should be tested daily by throwing out the clutch and applying them on a dry spot of street where there is little traffic. If the brakes are not operating properly the fault should be corrected at once.

Once in two months remove the rear wheels and wash the brake lining in kerosene. This removes all oil and grease which if present, take the "bite" out of the brakes. Never oil brake lining.

Brakes squeal when they are glazed or when improperly adjusted. Squealing can often be stopped by removing wheels and roughening the brake lining with a stiff brush.

If the brake lining is worn down to the rivets, stake the rivets farther or have the brakes relined.

Wipe off and oil the brake mechanism every 500 miles, or oftener.

Make regular systematic brake inspection a habit. The loss of a cotter pin might lead to a serious accident. When a lock washer is removed, don't put it back; use a new one.

AID ENFORCEMENT OF HIGHWAY LAWS
ALL OVER STATE

Automobile Investigators an Effective Force in Curbing Reckless Drivers.

ALSO ROUND UP AUTO THIEVES

Although Small in Number,
They Accomplish Much in Co-Operation With Local Authorities.

A small force of automobile investigators working under the direction of Secretary of State Louis L. Emmerson accomplishes much toward the enforcement of automobile laws. Although the force does not exceed thirty men on an average, some 35,000 violations of automobile laws are checked annually and about 3,000 arrests are made.

The investigators are distributed over the state so that each man can look after a large territory. By co-operating with local officials and making their trips over the territory at irregular intervals they are able to keep in close touch with the enforcement of automobile laws.

"The investigators have found that very often the most reckless drivers come from adjoining states. Not being used to smooth concrete roads in their own states they come here to enjoy ours and abuse the privilege by 'hogging' the road and speeding. "We are doing all we can to stop these practices."

Run Down Thieves.
Another very effective service of the automobile investigators is in running down automobile thieves and restoring stolen cars to the owners. In the last twelve months these investigators have recovered 250 stolen cars and have broken up several gangs of automobile thieves.

Under the state law enacted two years ago on the suggestion of Mr. Emmerson, local police and sheriffs are required to report to the secretary of state the numbers and descriptions of all automobiles reported stolen in their localities. These numbers and descriptions are compiled once a week and mailed to all sheriffs and police officers in the state. This aids materially in the identification of stolen cars. The investigators work with local authorities and since their powers extend all over the state and are able to do very effective work in running down thieves.

GIRLS OF SCHOOL AGE LEARN VALUABLE LESSON

Find Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound
a Dependable Medicine

LOUISE LOUTHAN
ROUTE 2, CHARLESTON, ILLINOIS

From the days of the polonaise to the days of the radio, mothers have given this dependable medicine to their daughters. School girls are often careless. They get wet feet. They overstudy or they tire themselves with too many dances and parties. They get run down.

Many an active girl of today, like the demure maiden of the 1870's, has found that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is helping her to find better health and energy.

"I gave my fifteen-year-old girl

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it did her a wonderful lot of good. She had been out of school for four months. I read the advertisements of the Vegetable Compound, and since she has taken it she has improved and has gone back to school again. I recommend the Vegetable Compound to other mothers with girls who are not as strong as they should be."—Mrs. ALICE LOUTHAN, Route 2, Charleston, Illinois.

"My daughter was out of school two terms. I have known about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound all my life and finally decided that she should try it. Three bottles helped her in various ways for the next couple of years."—Mrs. W. B. GILLETTE, 986 E. 52nd Place, Los Angeles, Calif.

"I have always been sickly, and until I was fourteen my father was very strict about my perfect attendance at grammar school. I have gone to school through hard storms and often taken cold. When I was fourteen I took to my bed and did not get up for eighteen months. Everyone thought I could not live. Just four months ago I began taking your wonderful medicine, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I could notice a great change almost at once. Now I feel like a new person. I wish all girls would try Lydia E. Pinkham's wonderful medicine."—Mrs. C. M. SMITH, Union Village, Vermont.

To All Who Suffer Stomach Agony, Gas and Indigestion

Money Cheerfully Refunded if One Bottle of Dare's Mentha-Pepsin Doesn't Do You More Good Than Anything You Ever Used.

You can be so distressed with gas and fullness and bloating that you think your heart is going to stop beating.

Your stomach may be so distended that your breathing is short and gaspy. You think perhaps you are suffocating.

You are dizzy and pray for quick relief—what's to be done?

Just one tablespoonful of Dare's Mentha-Pepsin and in ten minutes the gas disappears, the pressing on the heart ceases and you can breathe deep and naturally.

Oh! What blessed relief; but why not get rid of such attacks altogether?

Why have chronic indigestion at all? With this wonderful medicine you can banish indigestion or dyspepsia.

It is not by the gray of the hair that one knows the age of the heart.—Bulwer.

catarrh of stomach or any abnormal condition that keeps the stomach in constant rebellion and one bottle will prove it.

And how happy you will be when your stomach is as good as new for then dizziness, nervousness, sleeplessness, headache, dull eyes and other ailments caused by a disordered stomach will disappear and you will be your old happy, contented self again. Your local dealer and druggists everywhere guarantee one bottle of Dare's Mentha-Pepsin to show the way to stomach comfort.

Over 6,000 bottles sold in one small New Jersey town last year—ask yourself why?

Evansville Engineer Rescued by Tanlac

Victim of Liver Trouble, Nervous Indigestion, Loss of Sleep, Rheumatism and Run-down Condition,
Finds Long-sought Relief

Michael Heim, 200 Oakley Street, Evansville, Indiana, an engineer, says: "Telegraphic rheumatism, bad stomach and liver trouble had me in terrible shape.

"My strength had vanished. When I walked dizzy spells made me reel. And my stomach was so upset that I couldn't eat without bloating up and suffering from tormenting indigestion. Rheumatic pains in arms and legs made it difficult for me to get about. I had almost given up hope of ever recovering my lost health and strength when I took the advice of a friend and began taking Tanlac. I recommend it to all who are ailing.

"This tonic worked wonders with me. Pain vanished with rheumatism. Quickly my old strength returned. I began to have a great appetite and ate everything without a sign of pain. Tanlac certainly put me on my feet, made me stronger and gave me better health than I have had in years."

Tanlac usually banishes pain, conquers ailments and builds up strength in famished bodies. It relieves the system of poison caused by constipation.

tion and sluggish liver. It is Nature's own remedy made from roots, barks and herbs according to the famous Tanlac formula.

Banish sickness from your life and enjoy the benefits of strength and golden health. Begin taking Tanlac. The first bottle brings results that will surprise you. Ask your druggist for Tanlac—today! Over 40 million bottles sold.

Lesson for September 19

(Temperance Lesson.)

OBEDIENCE TO LAW

LESSON TEXT—Leviticus 24:1-46. GOLDEN TEXT—Do not drink wine nor strong drink, thou, nor thy sons with thee.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Daniel Chooses the Right.

JUNIOR TOPIC—The Self-Control of Daniel.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Why Obey the Law.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Enforcing the Law.

I. Some Fundamental Laws Stated (vv. 1, 2).

1. God alone to be worshiped (v. 1). God is a jealous God, therefore He cannot tolerate a rival. There must be no idolatry. God is to have full place in our lives or no place at all.

2. The Sabbath must be observed (v. 2).

The one who has enthroned God in his heart will reverence His Sabbath. The Sabbath was ordained that man might better cherish God in his heart.

3. Reverence for God's sanctuary (v. 2).

The believer needs to frequent the sanctuary of God in order to have his soul refreshed. Respect for God's holy day and the frequency of the sanctuary are inseparably united in those who fear and reverence God.

II. Blessings for Obedience to God's Laws (vv. 3-13).

1. Fruitful seasons (vv. 3-5).

Temporal well-being is secured through obedience to God's government. Godliness is profitable unto all having the promise of the life that now is and that which is to come.

2. Internal security (vv. 6-8).

In addition to the fullness of temporal blessings, God assured them that for obedience to His Word He would grant peace and safety. No robbers were to invade the land to disturb their tranquillity by day or night. No wild beasts would be allowed to devour them.

3. Numerical increase (vv. 9, 10).

Their number would be multiplied according to God's covenant to Abraham and the produce of the land increased to support them.

4. God's abiding presence (vv. 11-13).

The greatest of all God's blessings is His abiding presence. Happy is that nation and people in whose presence God chooses to dwell.

III. Calamities for Disobedience (vv. 14-39).

1. Judgments in general (vv. 14-17). For disobedience and rejection of God's laws, general calamities would be permitted to come upon them. They include:

(1) Physical diseases. Their health would be taken away and they were to be afflicted with diseases.

(2) Bereavement. Physical disease would take away kindred and friends, thereby causing sorrow of heart, and mourning.

(3) Famine. God would withhold the rain, therefore food supply would be lacking.

(4) Conquest. They would be slain before their enemies.

(5) Oppression and dispersion. God would allow the enemy to overcome and oppress them and ultimately take them out of their own land and scatter them.

2. The specific judgments (vv. 18-39).

Merces rejected and warnings unheeded must be followed by more severe strokes of wrath. Four series of warnings are pointed out by Kellogg, each conditioned on the supposition that they did not repent as the result of the preceding experiences. Each series is prefaced by the formula, "I will punish you seven times more for your sins" (vv. 18, 21, 24, 28). The thought is that each new display of impotence on Israel's part shall be marked by increasing severity.

(1) The rains will be withheld (vv. 19, 20).

(2) Their children and cattle will be destroyed by wild beasts (v. 22).

(3) This to be followed by war, pestilence and famine (vv. 25, 26).

(4) Increasing terror (vv. 29-32).

If the previous judgments were not heeded then severer ones would follow so that in their distress they would eat the flesh of their sons and daughters and their seed should become waste and their land so desolate that even their enemies would be astonished at it.

5. Scattered among the Gentiles (v. 33).

God would scatter them among the heathen and pursue them with a sword. How awfully this has been fulfilled in the history of that people.

The Happiest Homes

The happiest, sweetest, tenderest homes are not those where there has been no sorrow, but those which have been overshadowed with grief and where Christ's comfort was accepted. —J. R. Miller.

Read Your Bible

Read your Bible, make it the first morning business of your life to understand some portion of it clearly, and your daily business to obey it in all that you do understand.—R. McKim.

REFRESHING DRINKS

Mint is so refreshing in flavor and so attractive when used as a garnish, that even the word reminds us of delicious drinks. The famous mint juleps of the South were usually made with liquor, but one may serve a drink of fruit juices with nothing but pleasure in the consequences.

Mint Cup.—Express the juice from five lemons, add the leaves from a dozen stalks of mint, one and one-half cups of sugar and one-half cupful of water, cover and let stand thirty minutes. Just before serving pour into a pitcher over a large piece of ice and add three bottles of chilled ginger ale. Put a sprig of mint in the top of each glass or a bunch in the top of the pitcher for garnish.

Pineapple Lemonade.—Make a sirup by boiling one cupful of sugar and two cupfuls of water ten minutes, add the juice of three lemons and a can of grated pineapple; cool, strain and add four cupfuls of ice water.

Ever Ready Lemonade.—Add a cupful of sugar to two cupfuls of water and boil together twelve minutes; add a third of a cupful of lemon juice, cool and turn into a jar. Keep in the ice chest and serve with a few slices of fresh lemon for a garnish.

Chocolate Milk Shake.—Melt four squares of unsweetened chocolate, add one and three-fourths cupfuls of sugar and a pinch of salt; pour on gradually, stirring constantly, one and one-half cupfuls of boiling water. Boil five minutes. Cool and put into a jar, keep on ice. For chocolate milk shake add two and a half tablespoonfuls of the sirup, one egg and two-thirds of a cupful of milk, with two tablespoonfuls of chopped ice.

Iced Egg Nog.—This drink is not only refreshing but nourishing. Beat one egg for each glass, add a pinch of salt, a little sugar and a few drops of any desired flavoring. Beat well until the egg has absorbed the sugar. To make it especially good separate the egg and white and stir in the white lightly, add lemon juice if desired with a grating of lemon rind, and sufficient milk to fill the glass. Use iced water when the lemon juice is used.

A delightful drink which may always be at hand for an emergency is grape juice, with ginger ale. The combination is good and the zest of the ginger ale makes a most refreshing drink.

Some Choice Recipes.

For variety try this recipe; it is as pleasing to the palate as it sounds:

Stuffed Pork Chops.

Have pork chops cut one and one-half inches thick, split each chop to the bone and stuff with bread crumbs seasoned well with melted butter and eggs and onion, pepper and salt. Roll in cracker crumbs and beaten egg and fry in deep fat until brown on both sides. Now place in a baking pan and cover with the following:

One small can of tomatoes, one small onion chopped, one tablespoonful of butter, a teaspoonful of sugar and one of salt. Fasten together with a toothpick before frying and bake until thoroughly well done.

Oliver Salad.—Take one cupful of stoned olives, two cupfuls of celery chopped fine, four hard-cooked eggs diced fine. Mix with a cupful of mayonnaise and serve on lettuce.

Raisin Fudge Cake.—Cream together

one and one-half cupfuls of brown sugar and one-half cupful of butter, add two egg yolks, one cupful of chopped raisins, four ounces of melted chocolate, one-half cupful each of hot water and sour milk, two and one-half cupfuls of flour, one teaspoonful of soda, one-half teaspoonful of cinnamon and one-fourth teaspoonful of cloves. Bake in sheet pan in moderate oven. Cover with boiled frosting, using the two egg whites and two cupfuls of sugar, adding water to moisten and boil to a thread, pouring over the beaten egg white. Sprinkle a half cupful of blanched almonds over the top of the cake.

Vegetable Curry.—Mix one cupful

each of cooked carrots, potatoes, turnips and peas together. Pour over them one cupful of white sauce, one tablespoonful of lemon juice, one-fourth teaspoonful of curry powder, all cooked in the white sauce. On a large platter heap seasoned mashed potato, with plenty of butter dotted over it, make a border and brown in the oven. Pour the vegetable curry into the border and sprinkle the whole with finely minced parsley. Serve very hot.

Cored apples cooked and filled with a mixture of chopped nuts, raisins and marmalade, then covered with a meringue and browned in the oven, is another attractive way of serving apples.

How Times Change

Jean, age ten, living in Park avenue, has been in the habit for several years of visiting her cousin Oliver in the country for a week each summer. This summer she said nothing about going. She showed none of her former enthusiasm for making the journey, and finally her mother said: "Well, Jean, how about the visit to the farm this summer?"

"Oh, I don't think I'll go," she replied.

"Why not?" asked the mother.

"Well, it's not the same town there since the goat died," she said.—Indianapolis News.
